

#InspireTheEnd

After another weekend of mass shootings, MM&M asked creatives to help inspire the end of gun violence

Because this is a public health crisis.

Few issues are as immediately polarizing as the place of guns in a modern society. But even the most ardent supporters of the Second Amendment have to agree that there's a difference between owning a firearm for recreation, protection or putting food on the table and shooting up a Walmart on a Saturday morning. The violence needs to stop.

MM&M recently asked our audience to use their skills in this cause. We figure that our community, skilled as it is in communicating about health matters, can apply its talents to a highly matrixed and emotional hot-button issue so that nobody else will have to grieve a loved one who died from a gunshot wound.

On the following pages are some of the best submissions we received. Please share these important submissions and keep an eye out for further competitions from MM&M.
